BYRD NEARS THE END OF HIS FLIGHT FROM N. Y. TO PARIS

Sends Message That He Will Soon Be In Sight Of Land

ENCOUNTERED A STORM
Fog and Storms Marred Trip
To A Certain Extent

By International News Service
ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 30.—Commander Byrd from his trans-Atlantic plane somewhere southwest of England sent a radio message shortly after noon today that he expected to sight land "at the end of an hour."

Commander Richard E. Byrd, in his great tri-motored Fokker plane America, today was believed speeding eastward over the Atlantic through heavy fog banks in his attempted non-stop flight from New York to Paris.

Byrd's automatic radio call, sent out continuously from his small wireless set, was picked up several times during the night and early morning by land stations in the United States and in Ireland, and by ships at sea.

A message sent from the America by George O. Noville, Byrd's radio officer, at 6.30 this morning, Greenwich mean time, was picked out of the ether by the radio station at Valentia, Ireland. It stated:

"Passing through heavy fog. Have not seen land or water since 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon."

At 3 o'clock this morning, Eastern Standard Time, two ships at sea reported they had heard Byrd's automatic call signal. Last midnight the liner Adriatic also picked up the call, and estimated that the America was then 600 miles east of Newfoundland.

Byrd, who started on his 3,600 mile flight at 5.24 yesterday morning, accompanied by Noville, Bert Acosta and Berni Balchen, expects to land in Paris at about six or seven o'clock this evening, New York daylight time.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 30 (I.N.S.).—Despite pessimistic reports of a continuous fog shroud from Commander Richard E. Byrd in his trans-Atlantic plane America, the machine was estimated to be 600 miles off the Irish coast and 90 miles south of her original course from radio signals "distinctly heard" from the America by the liner Berlin and reported to the hangar here at 8.50 a. m. today.

"Radio signals WTW of Byrd plane distinctly heard," went the message from the liner Berlin.

"Plane bearing north about 50 miles by radio direction finder. Plane not visible. Winds strong west. Cloudy. No radio communication. America can not hear us, Master."

Grover Whalen, vice-president of the Trans-Oceanic Company, said that the America has averaged over 100 miles per hour.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 30 (I.N.S.).—"Whatever happens I take my hat off to these three great fellows with me."

This was the ominous message received at the hangar here today at 7.50 a. m., from Commander Richard Byrd, flying over the Atlantic in his Fokker plane America.

"We have seen neither land nor water since 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon," the message continued. "Everything completely covered with fog for sixteen hours. But whatever happens I take my hat off to these three great fellows with me."

The message, time 6.50 eastern daylight time, was relayed by the liner Droghda.

PARIS, June 30 (I.N.S.).—At 8.15 o'clock this morning, G. M. T., (4.15 eastern daylight time), Commander Richard E. Byrd in his Fokker plane America had covered about three-quarters of his long water jump from Newfoundland to the Irish coast, on his flight from New York to Paris, according to a radio received from the liner Paris.

VALENTIA, Ireland, June 30 (I.N.S.).—The Valentia wireless station at 6.30 o'clock (Greenwich mean time) picked up a radiogram from the America in which Commander Richard E. Byrd stated that his monoplane was passing through heavy fog and that he and his companions "had not seen land nor water since 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon."

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 30 (I.N.S.).—The Byrd trans-Atlantic plane America was 900 miles from the coast of Ireland at 4 o'clock this morning, eastern daylight time, according to a "sextant estimate made by the liner Hamburg from call signal picked up from the plane."

Grover Whalen, vice-president of the America Trans-Oceanic Company, stated that this message showed the America was on her true course, and estimated that the plane had travelled between 2,200 and 2,500 miles from New York. The America is averaging approximately 100 miles an hour, according to these figures.

HONOLULU REVELS IN WORSHIP OF AVIATORS

Maitland and Hegenberger
Are Given Warm Reception
On Arrival

ARE MET BY AIR FLEET

HONOLULU, June 30 (I.N.S.).—Honolulu revelled today in the luxury of hero worship.

The objects of wild adulation were Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, Army aviators who yesterday morning broke through the clouds with a rising sun and set their giant Fokker monoplane on Wheeler Field here after negotiating the first non-stop flight over the 2,400 miles of Pacific Ocean between California and the Hawaiian Islands.

The history-making airmen took off from Oakland, Cal., at 7.08 Tuesday morning, Pacific Coast time, and arrived here at 5.05 a. m., Wednesday, Honolulu time, (9.05 coast time), completing the epochal flight in 25 hours and 57 minutes.

Eleven Army planes met the gallant flyers several miles off shore and escorted them to the landing field here. The great, tri-motored Fokker made a perfect landing and was found to have finished the flight in excellent condition. More than 200 gallons of gasoline were still in the tanks.

A huge crowd that had waited patiently through the night roared a mighty welcome as Maitland and Hegenberger hove into sight. They seemed to have come up out of the sea with the rising sun.

The flyers were tired but happy.

KIWANIS DELEGATES TELL OF CONVENTION

Doylestown Had Two Representatives At the Recent International Session

MUCH WAS LEARNED

DOYLESTOWN, Pa., June 30.—Highlights of the Memphis convention of Kiwanis International were related by the local Kiwanis delegates Tuesday night at the weekly meeting of the Doylestown club at Brunner's Cafe. The Doylestown club was recently represented at this convention by two delegates, Kiwanians Bill Satterthwaite and Russ Thomas. The local club was the only one in the district outside of Willow Grove and Chester that sent two delegates.

Delegates informed the club members last night that it would be impossible to relate the details of a big convention in a short period of time and that the real facts of the convention would be published from time to time in the weekly edition of the "Doylestown Kiwanian," the official publication of the local club.

The proposed increase in the per capita tax in Kiwanis was defeated at the convention, it was reported, the final vote being 1264 to 527. It was proposed to increase the tax fifty cents.

One secretary from a San Francisco club warned against the "one man club" idea, or the club that practically all the work has to be done by one man.

There were 1719 delegates seated in the house of delegates of the convention during the session. This was described as the largest voting house of delegates of any convention on record in this country.

The importance of a tutor system for new members lasting five weeks was stressed at the convention and will be carried out by the Doylestown club in the future through the committee on Kiwanis education.

The leading address of the convention in the opinion of the local delegates was the one given by Kiwanian Roe Fulkerson, editorial writer of the Kiwanis and Shrine magazines, on "Who Is Living Your Life."

"Our pocket books are filled but our hearts are as empty as a haunted house," declared Fulkerson as he addressed 4000 Kiwanians for ten minutes on the second morning of the convention.

"You and I send out boys to summer camps and then forget about them. Are we pals enough to them. No, I think not, most of the time. We hire somebody else to do practically everything I can think of."

"We are so busy making money that our positions are giving our lives for us and we then kick because the vote did not get out at the last election or because some legislation passes that we object to."

"We hire people to fish for us, we hire people in the movies to entertain us, thrills are furnished by others over the radio, professional musicians are living our lives for us. The period of good old home music and song is a thing of the past."

"We are not living our lives. Life is full of good things if we only take time out to live our own life."

Dr. William J. Johnston, of the Montreal club, spoke to the convention on "How To Interest Kiwanis in Public Matters." He urged clubs to get behind clean sports, to link up with organized authoritative bodies, especially the church and above all, to not be ashamed of your religion.

He urged members to be sure and vote. One delegate from British Columbia told how in that country a citizen lost his right to vote when he failed to vote at two consecutive elections and that it was a difficult problem to get the right renewed.

The election of officers at the Memphis convention resulted as follows: President, Henry C. Heinz, of Atlanta; vice-presidents, William C. Alexander, of New York, and Fred P. Higgins, of Toronto; treasurer, Raymond Crossland, of Omaha.

Summer Months

The session on Wednesday will last for one hour only, and on Thursday the full periods will begin. Enrollment and organization will take place Wednesday. Any children not having in their possession enrollment cards, may obtain same at the school.

All the boys and girls of the community are eligible to join, the ages for admittance being from three to 14 years. There will be five groups, with a teacher and assistants for each group. In the kindergarten the boys and girls will be grouped together, making one class; while in the primary and junior groups the boys and girls will be in separate classes. The periods will consist of: Devotional, musical, Bible study, recreational, expression and handwork.

PREACHER WINS IN APPEAL; VERDICT OF JUSTICE SET ASIDE

Rev. Benj. Hottel Will Not Have To Pay Big
Fine

EVIDENCE WAS LACKING

No Evidence of Wilfully or Maliciously Cutting Down
Wakefield Trees

DOYLESTOWN, June 30.—Rev. Benjamin Hottel, Springfield township, minister and lumber dealer well known in the Quakertown section of Bucks County, will not have to pay a fine of $31,450 that was imposed upon him by Justice of the Peace Groff, of Sellersville.

Judge William C. Ryan yesterday announced in Quarter Session Court that the defendant was discharged. There was no evidence in the appeal hearing to show that the clergyman cut down or removed, wilfully or maliciously, the 1258 trees on the property of Jane Wakefield, Margaret W. Wakefield and George B. Wakefield on March 25, in West Rockhill township.

The clergyman was arraigned before Justice Groff, who imposed the fine under an Act of Assembly of 1925. He was fined $25 for each tree or shrub cut down or removed. The case was appealed to the county court and it resulted in the discharge of Rev. Hottel, the Court ruled.

Testimony in the defense showed there was a mistake in running the property lines. Rev. Hottel purchased the quantity of timber on certain land for cutting purposes. More trees were cut than was included in the layout purchased.

It is likely that a civil action will follow to recover for the number of trees lost in the transaction through the mistaken boundary lines.

A peculiar situation is that the act makes no provisions as to who is to pay the costs in such a case, where the defendant is discharged. At the present time Justice Groff, who failed to collect his costs when the case was heard before him, is wondering where he will get his costs. Constable Frank Hallmann, of Sellersville, who arrested Rev. Hottel is also looking for his costs.

In the Quarter Sessions, Judge Ryan ordered that the forfeiture of the bail or recognizance entered in the case of the Commonwealth against Lloyd W. Ruch, charged with reckless driving, be stricken off. Ruch was arraigned before Justice Daniel H. Bilger, of South Langhorne and held under $50 bail to appear in court. He failed to appear when called owing to a mixup in orders given him by his attorney.

The Court appointed William Stuckert, Doylestown; Ulysses G. Loux, Springfield township, and Harry J. Arnold, Bristol, as members of a jury of view to inspect the reinforced concrete highway bridge over Neshaminy Creek on a line between New Britain township and Chalfont and another bridge over Robin Run on Smith's Road, near Wycombe, Buckingham township.

A petition of the electors of Solebury township for the appointment of a township auditor to succeed Frank L. Magill, resigned, was approved by the Court with the appointment of Lewis Webster.

Held For Assaulting Landlord At Croydon

Saturday at 6 p. m., John F. Semader, owner and landlord of a house on State Road, occupied by Fred Getz, went to collect the rent, which was three days overdue.

Upon entering the house, Semader was asked by Getz whether or not it was trouble he wanted. Semader replied it was the rent he was after and instead of getting the rent, he was struck in the mouth and otherwise badly beaten by Getz.

Officer H. L. Hughes was called to the scene and arrested Getz and took him before Squire John W. Walmsley on a charge of aggravated assault and battery.

Getz was held in $500 bail for the September term of Court and in default of bail was taken to the county jail by Hughes.

LEAPS 65 FEET FROM R. R. BRIDGE; MAY RECOVER

Trucking Firm Head Lands In

Breaks Leg and Shoulder;
Asks Trooper for Use
Of His Gun

Soon after bidding his wife and four children good-bye, Ernest Brennensuhl, 46 years old, of 2244 North Fairhill street, Philadelphia, last night leaped from a high bridge into Neshaminy Creek, a few miles below Langhorne, allegedly in an attempt to die.

Brennensuhl plunged 65 feet from the Reading Railway bridge and landed in two or three feet of water, suffering a fracture of the leg and shoulder and lacerations of the knee. He was taken to the Frankford Hospital where his condition is not regarded as being serious.

Brennensuhl is the owner of the Fairhill Storage Company, of Philadelphia, and is said to be well to do. His fleet of trucks operate between Philadelphia and New York. About three months ago he suffered a nervous breakdown and was admitted to the Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia, for treatment. Lately he showed signs of improvement and yesterday he was granted permission to visit his family.

Early in the evening he bid his wife and four children good-bye, without saying where he was going. His wife believed that he was going to return to the hospital.

Shortly before 9 o'clock passing autoists saw him leap from the span into the shallow stream. The Pennsylvania Highway Patrol, at Langhorne, was notified and Trooper Welsh hurried to the scene. The trooper placed the injured man in a passing auto and took him to the Frankford Hospital.

On the way, Trooper Welsh says, the victim said: "I did a poor job, but I will do better next time."

The trooper states that Brennensuhl then asked him to loan him his revolver so he could shoot himself.

Found Stolen Money Down In A Cesspool

CROYDON, June 30.—Thomas Bush, 23, of Rockledge, employed by an artesian well drilling concern, was arrested Saturday on a charge of larceny by Officer H. Lincoln Hughes, on information sworn out by John B. Rulon, Philadelphia, contractor directing the well operation for the Blue Moon Hosiery Co., of this place.

After Rulon hung his coat, containing a wallet with $30 in it, on the well digging machinery, and had gone to the factory, he remembered leaving the wallet and went back for it. As he approached the spot, he claims, he saw Bush hurry from the machine and put the wallet back into Rulon's coat. When the wallet was examined Rulon found $28 missing.

Accused of the theft, Bush became indignant and wanted to fight. Rulon says Bush refused to empty a pocket in which he fancied he saw the money causing a bulge. Then Officer Hughes was sent for, but found no money on Bush. Learning that Bush had gone to a toilet, meanwhile, Hughes had the cesspool opened and on top of the water recovered three $5 bills, presumably floated there by a flush.

On the strength of the evidence Bush was given a hearing and held under $600 bail for court.

As I see it—

Observations About Events, Persons and Things Which Are of General Interest.

"Hello" is one of the most widely used words in the English language and has been in use so long that it is not definitely known just how it originated. We are told that it first appeared in literature about the year 1593.

Now, some of the ultra-correct come along, and reminding us that it is not just proper, suggest that a greeting such as "How do you do," "Good Afternoon," or the like would fall much more pleasantly upon one's ears.

Then some of the individuals referred to in the preceding paragraph go on to explain that "Hello" is not in use among those who would be in the first of the social ranks. Perhaps not!

The little word of five letters is a blessing to those who dozens of times a day find use for the telephone instrument. Think of the time it saves and weigh the very "handiness" of the word.

Of course those who question the correctness of the word would not want it removed from the vocabulary entirely. They admit it has its uses. This group contends it shouldn't be so widely used as a greeting on the street.

Of course it is all well and good to use the more staid of greetings when passing a casual acquaintance or greeting a friend more mature.

It seems, however, to hold such a wealth of greeting when it comes from a friend of long standing. They send forth that "Hello" with a certain intonation that bespeaks their feeling of comradeship toward us.

We like the sound of their voice as they let the word fall from the tongue.

"Hello" has a certain wealth of cheer; it speaks good-will and gladness, and we like to send it forth.

I love to repeat the version of the word that James W. Foley gives to us:

"Hello" doesn't last for a minute. A clear little, clear little word. But say! there's a lot of cheer in it. It's like the first chirp of a bird in Spring, when the hilltops are greening.

Right after the cold and the snow. I think when it comes to real meaning there isn't one word like "Hello!"

RACES AT LANGHORNE

LANGHORNE, Pa., June 30.—Venturing into automobile racing competition on an Eastern track for the first time next Monday afternoon at Langhorne Speedway, Langhorne, Pa., will be Dutch Bauman, of Indianapolis, prominent knight of the dusty circle throughout the West.

Another who will make his Eastern bow on the Fourth is Jack Petticoat, of California. The pair from the open spaces will find competition keen in the holiday program, for lined up against them will be Ira Vail, champion; Jimmy Gleason, Frank Farmer, Freddy Winnal, Larry Williams, John Stevens, the best the East offers.

Records may go by the boards on the fast Langhorne oval. Certainly the mark hung up by Farmer of 41.80 seconds for one circuit of the mile dirt track is in peril when the boys get warmed up to their tasks next Monday.

The track has been harrowed and scraped and will be oiled today, after which it will be allowed to dry for twenty-four hours. On Saturday, it is planned to throw open the track to the drivers for practice.

Bauman competed in the Memorial Day race of 500 miles at Indianapolis Speedway. He was running second at the 400-mile post when engine trouble forced him to the sidelines. He will

LEGION MAN HERE AIDS IN GETTING DATA ABOUT ANOTHER

The following letter is published as an example of the service which the American Legion is continually rendering to the families of former comrades. George Croner, a member of the local post recently noticed a request in the Legion monthly on behalf of Mr. James W. Alexander, of Moundsville, W. Va., for information in connection with the death of his only son who was killed in action July 23, 1918. Although unable to furnish the information himself, having been wounded a few days previous, he wrote to another comrade, who in turn wrote this most interesting letter to the father.

Pittsburgh, Penna.,
February 2nd, 1927.

Mr. James W. Alexander,
Moundsville, W. Va.

My dear Mr. Alexander:

My attention was called to your notice appearing in the December issue of the American Legion Magazine in which you seek information concerning the death of your son, Corporal Ralph Alexander, Company "I," 4th Infantry, who was killed in action July 24th, 1918.

As a member of Company "I," 4th Infantry, present on that terrible night, I believe I am in a position to give you certain information which I hope may help ease the pangs of sorrow and anxiety, which I know you have suffered during all these years.

Ralph and I first met as recruits at Gettysburg and, from then on, shared alike all the joys and discomforts that go together with Army life. You may rest assured that Ralph was a model soldier in camp, never once to my knowledge was he reprimanded for any action unbecoming a soldier and on the line under fire he proved only too well to be a man of courage, fearless in the face of danger, a real inspiration to those who fought by his side; his good nature, his ready wit, together with his many other sterling qualities causing him to be beloved and respected by all members of the organization.

Although I am sure you heard from Ralph after his arrival overseas quite frequently, I also know that his letters were censored. I am quite sure that he would have liked to have told you where he was, what he had done and speak generally of his movements on the line, all of which he was unable to do on account of the strict censorship in effect at that time. I am of the opinion, therefore, that you would be interested in knowing something of his experiences and I will endeavor to relate roughly some of his movements from the time our company reached the front line until that dreadful night of July 23rd-24th.

I am sending you a map which I have secured so as to enable you to trace the movements which I will mention.

Leaving our training area on Decoration Day, we moved toward the front, detouring at Montmiral (not shown on the map) advancing in short marches toward Nogentel, reaching that town about June 20th. Here the enemy shells were numerous but all houses were provided with deep cellars and we all realized that we were almost safe beyond question. This was the first taste of real war we ever had and everyone seemed to enjoy the experience. The Germans shelled the town heavily and the houses and buildings suffered considerably by the daily bombardments but fortunately we suffered no casualties. Company "I" occupied this town for about ten days or two weeks, then withdrew to the hills in back of the town in support of the troops who had relieved us. From this time on until July 17th or 18th, we occupied support positions southeast and just across the Marne River from Chateau Thierry living in woods and dugouts, making it safe for ourselves from the enemy shell fire. Our losses up to July 15th were quite slight, considering our being in the open and moving about, but on this night the Germans opened up a fearful, withering and extensive barrage of gas, high explosives and everything else in the line of death dealing missiles one could imagine. It was their preparation move to advance further into French territory and the only reason they did not succeed was because we were ready for them, and not because they did not try. The barrage started about midnight, July 14th, and lasted in full force until noon the next day. Shells seemed to be bursting everywhere—shells of all calibre and a goodly number of gas shells. Several platoons of our company were caught exposed and without shelter, just having started to dig a network of trenches immediately in rear of the first line. Here is where

Ralph displayed rare courage and bravery, and helped by his example of coolness under fire to avert confusion and disorder among his squad.

Company "I" moved to a reserve trench about a mile or so to the east and by this time (about noon July 15) the barrage subsided somewhat as, no doubt, the Bosch realized their efforts were futile and what was left of the Company were able to snatch a few hours of much needed rest. We could not eat as our field kitchen had been blown to pieces by shell fire and what rations were left could hardly be eaten on account of having been poisoned by gas. This was the first real test the Company had experienced, several of our dear friends and comrades making the supreme sacrifice and quite a few wounded, some so severely that we afterward received information of their death. Company "I" occupied this position for several days and soon heard that the Germans were retreating. All members of the Company were in a good frame of mind as we left the woods that day to think we had the enemy on the run. We were marching in the direction of Nogentel and, while passing through a wheat field on the crest of a hill immediately south of the town, the Germans spied us and again we were the recipients of a fearful rain of shells, causing us more uneasiness. Not a man flinched, every man kept moving and while moving held his place. Our Captain (William E. Kepner) was in the lead and, as we all respected him as a leader and a soldier, we followed him, knowing that he would pull us through. We did come through, our casualties being rather slight considering our exposure.

We arrived in Nogentel and rested there for the night, moving out the following day about noon (July 21st) in the direction of Chierry, a small suburb of Chateau Thierry, situated on the south bank of the Marne River

(not shown on map), and crossed the Marne by means of a pontoon bridge about the middle of the afternoon passing through the southeast corner of Chateau Thierry and eastward along the road running parallel with the river, through the towns of Brasle and Gland to a point on the road a little to the west of Mont St. Pere. Here we left the road and moved to the hills toward the north and remained for the night. In the morning we could see below us the village of Mont St. Pere. The enemy artillery was active and we suffered some casualties. That afternoon (July 22nd) we entered Mont St. Pere, which had been abandoned by the enemy. We rested here all night. Enemy planes played over the town for awhile. However, we received a couple of warm meals and a fairly good rest and started out late the next afternoon (July 23rd.) It was slightly before dusk when Company "I" moved out of the town of Mont St. Pere. We advanced along the River Road. I would say, for a distance of about a half or three-quarters of a mile, then took a trail which I believe headed due north. I say due north because I remember leaving the river at right angles. As I remember this was not much of a road but more like a rough trail leading through the woods. I recollect one spot however. We had halted for quite awhile, I finding myself stationed beside an old building, for when we halted I conversed with several members of the Company who, together with Ralph, just a few hours later met their fate. I remember this building as sort of an abandoned barn built of stone, clay and heavy timbers and it was situated on this trail over which we were advancing, about one and one-half or two miles, I would say, up from the river.

Too Much "Acid?"

Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's are recommended by many local people. Ask your neighbor!

After a rather lengthy halt, we continued up the hill until we reached a small ravine, stream bed, gulch or just a natural ditch. I don't know just what I should call it, however, it crossed under the road at right angles by means of a stone culvert and from here on down the slope Company "I" took their position for the night. Shortly after moving into this ravine, we were probably informed that we were to remain here for the night at least, for nevertheless those of us who were able, spread their blankets and went to sleep. Those who were fortunate enough to find a comfortable place to sleep were suddenly awakened by the terrific explosion of a shell which seemed to have been perfectly placed by the enemy right into this ditch which we were using for shelter. Enemy shells were quite numerous for awhile and unfortunately several more landed in or very close to our position. We knew that some of our men had been killed and quite a few of them wounded but we were unable to determine accurately the extent of our casualties for it was very dark and, not until dawn broke, did we fully realize what losses had been sustained.

Here was where your son, Corporal Ralph Alexander, together with a number of other dear comrades, paid the supreme sacrifice. It was not until after daylight that I saw Ralph and I am sure his death was painless and instant. He, no doubt, was killed by a direct hit of a shell for his chest seemed to have been crushed and his body was partly buried under the dirt which had been blown loose from the side of the dugout, in which he had been caught. It was impossible to move him, as I remember, and Ralph was laid away in the very spot on which he was killed. He was given a soldier's burial; the Company Commander, Captain William E. Kepner, offering a fitting prayer while his comrades paid silent tribute by his side.

So far I have tried, my dear Mr. Alexander, to tell you of some of the movements of your son from the time Company "I" entered the line until his death, feeling certain that you would be interested in knowing this. I have told you how Ralph was killed and now I will tell you about where his grave is located.

You will note on the map that the Division Front Line on July 23rd is almost mid-distance between Mont St. Pere and La Charnel and, as I remember distinctly, travelling straight up the hillside after leaving the River Road. I drew a red line accordingly and have inserted thereon a line at right angles which I intend for the ravine or stream bed. At the lower mouth of the culvert, I remember there being a huge rock almost ten or twelve feet in height. About ten feet on down the ravine on the left hand side is where Ralph's grave is located. At first thought I was rather surprised to learn that his body was never recovered for I remember there was a cross placed at his head, on which I am quite sure was fastened his identification tag. On second thought I believe I can understand how traces of his grave may have been removed. As I have mentioned several times before, I am of the opinion (even though it was dry the night of July 23rd) that this ditch was the bed of a stream or brook of some kind and that in the spring or after heavy rains the water could easily have washed away the cross and other marks of identification. You will note I have shown on the map the culvert, the rock and the grave in their respective positions, one to the other.

I sincerely trust that my feeble efforts as set forth in this letter may be of real assistance to you in locating your son's grave after all these years. If, however, I have not made myself clear on my point, I ask that you kindly advise me.

With all kind wishes, I am
Very respectfully yours,
